The Foundation's portfolio was constructed with the following concepts in mind:

- Allocate the majority of the portfolio to asset classes with high long-term returns, i.e. equities/alternative asset classes.
- Consistently utilize meaningful asset class diversification to achieve return objectives during a variety of economic and market conditions.
- Avoid attempts to predict short-term market behavior via market timing strategies.
- Retain world-class investment managers who are expected to out-perform index funds over most three to five year periods. In areas where the Foundation does not believe meaningful or reliable above benchmark performance is available, index strategies are used.

Current Market/Performance Commentary

US financial markets started the second quarter in disarray after the Trump administration announced sweeping tariff reform, however in the ensuing weeks markets rallied as investors' apprehensions and uncertainty were overcome by resilient corporate earnings and renewed optimism around artificial intelligence (AI) and trade talks. The S&P 500, MSCI EAFE and Emerging Market indices all ended the quarter with gains of 10-12%. Intra-quarter volatility was also high in the bond market: in the case of the ten-year note, yields ranged from 4.0% to 4.6%, but ended the quarter little changed at 4.2%.

In Q2 2025, the Long Term Pool returned +7.8%, outperforming its custom benchmark's return by 80 basis points. The Pool's global equities and hedge funds were the largest contributor to relative outperformance, while domestic large/mid-cap and emerging markets equities were the largest detractors.
